A Season of New Beginnings

There is something both exhilarating and humbling about beginning again. This summer, my family and I have been unpacking boxes, learning new streets, and discovering new restaurants, as we began the exciting adventure of making South Florida our home. As the new Senior Rabbi of B'nai Torah Congregation, I have had the privilege of meeting so many warm and welcoming people. Every conversation has reminded me why this community has earned such a special reputation. We are grateful to be here, and we are excited to begin this new chapter together.

Senior Rabbi
Bryan Wexler

It feels especially fitting that my arrival coincides with the Jewish New Year. Rosh Hashanah is often translated simply as "the Jewish New Year," but it is so much more than the turning of a calendar page. Judaism teaches that every year offers us the extraordinary gift of beginning again. No matter what the past year has held, moments of joy or moments of disappointment, successes or setbacks, we are invited to pause, reflect, and ask ourselves a timeless question: Who do I hope to become in the year ahead? That is a question that speaks to all of us.

We all know what it is like to stand at the threshold of something new. A new home. A new job. A new school year. A new relationship. A new chapter of life. New beginnings remind us that our stories are still being written and that tomorrow can always be different from yesterday.

One of my favorite teachings in Jewish tradition comes from the medieval philosopher Maimonides (the Rambam), who wrote that one of the greatest gifts God gives us is the ability to change. We are never permanently defined by who we were yesterday. Each new year offers us another opportunity to become kinder, more compassionate, more generous, and more fully ourselves. And that message feels especially meaningful to me this year.

As my family and I plant seeds and put down roots, we know firsthand both the excitement and the uncertainty that accompany any transition. And because of that, I have come to appreciate even more deeply the importance of community. You see, in Judaism we rarely celebrate alone. We gather around tables, we sing together, we pray together, we mourn together, and we celebrate together. Community reminds us that life's most meaningful moments are richer when they are shared. That is the kind of community we strive to cultivate every day at B'nai Torah Congregation.

The High Holy Days are among the most beautiful and inspiring moments of the Jewish year. The music stirs the soul. Ancient prayers invite reflection. Families gather across generations. And the sound of the shofar reminds us to wake up to what matters most: our relationships, our values, and our hopes for the future.

As we begin this New Year together, my hope is that each of us will find moments for reflection, opportunities for growth, and meaningful connections that enrich our lives and strengthen our community. Whether this is your first High Holy Day experience or your fiftieth, whether you are a lifelong member of our congregation or someone just beginning to explore your Jewish journey, know that you belong here. This is a place where every voice matters, every soul is valued, and each of us has the opportunity to learn, grow, and help shape the future of our sacred community.

On behalf of my family and everyone at B'nai Torah Congregation, I wish you and your loved ones a sweet, healthy, and peaceful New Year.

Shana Tova.

Dear Friends,

I hope you had a good and meaningful summer, and that if you faced challenges, you had the strength and support you needed.

This summer, I traveled and stayed with dear friends all over the United States and Canada. I spent time catching up with family and friends, and enjoyed spending quality time with my own family, especially my son Yair, after two very intense years of him being on the road performing. We attended theater performances, concerts and stand-up comedy shows, explored different places, and reunited with people in our lives. It's all about people at the end of the day, and relationships are the most meaningful gift of life. But sometimes it can be challenging to maintain relationships with all the people we love. Life gets so busy, and we lose a sense of time.

I always try to self-reflect and think about how I can grow and change. A friend of mine suggested that every day I make time to schedule a call or text with a friend that I haven't talked to in a while. To commit to it and make it a sacred time. And that made me think about what is considered sacred time.

Sacred time can be whatever is good and important to you. We know that relationships are sacred, and so time spent maintaining and building these relationships becomes sacred too.

My goal for this year is to plan for more sacred time, and I'm inviting you to join me. Let's call it the Sacred Time Challenge.

Consider joining us for services it's a great time to disconnect from the troubles and connect to yourself, community and G-d. Come sing with us Chant and listen to the wonderful words of wisdom from our clergy.

Consider joining our concert series as a friend of the series or a sponsor, and come, close your eyes, and enjoy the sound of music.

Consider joining my music committee and brainstorming with me about creating and bringing more joy.

Consider joining me at Women's Wellness Day and other Women's League events.

Consider taking a class or lecture.

Consider coming to more synagogue holiday and social programming. We have so much to offer for all ages and interests.

I hope you will join me in this challenge, and that at the end of the year you'll report back to me what you added to your life that became sacred time.

I am looking forward to a year of community and music with our incredible music team - Maestro Tomer Adaddi and Elliot Weiss - two extraordinary musicians who have been part of our music team for years now along with our amazing choir amazing choir and friday night singers. I can't wait to work with my colleagues and friends, Rabbi Wexler, Rabbi Epelbaum, and Rabbi Susman, as well as our entire BTC staff and family.

These High Holy Days will be our sacred time together, and I look forward to seeing you all.

The world may be challenging, but this is exactly when we need each other most. We cannot control everything that happens, but we can choose how we show up for one another. We can keep creating connections, keep bringing music and joy, keep doing good, and keep hoping for - and working toward - a better world.

By being present you will receive the gift of connecting to others and sharing your gifts with them.

Shanah tovah!

Many blessings,

Shalom U' Brachah B'nai Torah,

Over the summer, I had the privilege of attending the 2026 Rabbinic Torah Seminar (RTS) through the Shalom Hartman Institute in Jerusalem. For two weeks, rabbis from around the world gathered to study, debate, ask hard questions, and think about the opportunities and challenges facing Jewish life today. It was energizing, inspiring...and every once in a while, a little humbling. There is nothing like sitting in a room full of rabbis to remind you how much you still have to learn.

Judaism has never been about having all the answers. It's about asking good questions, listening carefully, seeing different perspectives, and always being open to discovering something new. Even when I'm teaching a class or delivering a sermon, I'm learning.

Learning isn't something we outgrow. In fact, some of the most meaningful learning happens later in life, when we can connect new ideas to experiences we've had. One of the things I loved most about RTS was that everyone in the room had years or decades of experience, yet everyone was still eager to learn from one another. That's a powerful reminder that curiosity doesn't have an expiration date.

As we prepare for Rosh Hashanah, I'd like to offer a simple challenge for the new year: learn something new.

It doesn't have to be life changing. Just be curious. If you're looking for a place to start, B'nai Torah offers many opportunities. Join us for Lunch and Learn; stay after daily minyan for a class; dive into one of our Adult Jewish Education offerings, including the outstanding Melton School of Jewish Learning; or join us for our guest scholars or authors. In other words, try something outside your usual comfort zone. You might discover a new interest, make a new friend, or, at the very least, learn enough Hebrew to impress your grandchildren.

One of the greatest gifts we can give ourselves is the willingness to keep growing. Every new idea stretches us a little, and every new insight broadens our perspective. In many ways, that is what the High Holy Days are about. Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur invite us to resist the illusion that we are finished products. Judaism teaches that we are always capable of becoming wiser, kinder, more compassionate, and more faithful versions of ourselves. The shofar is not simply a call to remember who we have been; it is a summons to imagine who we can still become.

Whether you have celebrated the High Holy Days here for decades or are joining us for the first time, we hope you will discover something that challenges, inspires, and moves you. Growth is one of Judaism's holiest aspirations, and these Days of Awe remind us that transformation is always possible.

May this High Holy Day season expand our minds, deepen our souls, strengthen our community, and inspire each of us to write the next chapter of our lives with courage, gratitude, and hope.

Shanah Tovah Umetukah! May 5787 be the best year of our lives, and may 5788 surpass it.

Rabbi Hector Epelbaum

Dear Friends,

It's hard to believe we are already at the start of a new year. It's wonderful to see our congregants and children returning from summer and to feel the halls of B'nai Torah buzzing again. We're excited for all that the year ahead will bring.

As you know, the High Holy Days are a deeply personal time. We look back on the year that has passed, think about where we've grown, where we've fallen short, and ask ourselves what we hope to do differently in the year ahead.

But I think this reflection is about more than just ourselves. We all have a responsibility to help make our community stronger. Our personal growth and our communal growth are connected, and both are an important part of our teshuvah during the High Holy Days.

There is no one way to grow or to strengthen a community. It can mean volunteering, joining a class or program, bringing a friend to services, welcoming someone new, sharing an idea, reaching out to someone who may feel disconnected, or simply being there for someone who needs us.

A thriving community doesn't happen because of a building, a calendar, or a handful of people. It happens because people show up. And there are so many meaningful opportunities to show up for one another in the year ahead.

Come for Shabbat Kulanu and watch your children lead. Come to one of our community groups and make new connections. After the success of our first Zahava cruise, we're planning another one and hope even more people will join us. In February, we'll celebrate our first official Sababa wedding - a couple who found one another through their Sababa connection.

Come learn. We have so many Adult Education classes and lectures. We're excited to introduce a new Melton class for religious school parents to attend while their children are in Hebrew school. And for those who are new to Judaism or would like a refresher, we have a robust Introduction to Judaism class that is open not only to members of our community, but to people from around the world.

As we enter this season, may we think not only about the people we want to become, but about the community we want to create together. Every act of participation, every volunteer hour, every new friendship, and every welcoming gesture helps build something bigger than any one of us. A vibrant Jewish community is something we create, together, every day.

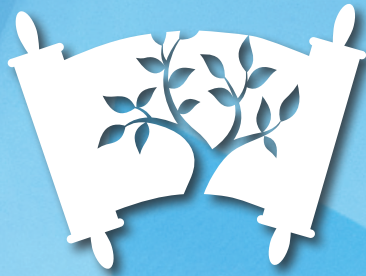

Emily and I wish you and your loved ones a year filled with health, happiness, peace, meaningful growth, and countless blessings.

L'Shanah Tovah.

Dear Friends,

I asked Rabbi Wexler if I could take some space to write to you, and he graciously invited me to take this opportunity. We are so fortunate to have Rabbi Wexler as our new rabbi. He is gracious, kind, and approaches the work with an open heart and ears willing to listen! As his journey and your journey begin, I pray for and anticipate a successful year for B'nai Torah.

So, where am I? I am spending time in Western Massachusetts, delighting in the beautiful weather and the magnificence of nature, going on lots of walks and hikes, visiting museums, hearing musical performances, and, most importantly, spending time with family. I have found great joy celebrating together on Friday nights with the family and sitting in shul with my son. I always witnessed that intergenerational experience from the bimah and felt a yearning for it. Now I have it, and I am grateful. I will be back in Boca and at B'nai Torah in mid-October, and I look forward to seeing you all.

I'm preparing for the work I will be doing this coming year and doing some writing and reading in a leisurely way. This retirement has brought home the sense of the preciousness of time. I'm not so rushed anymore and actually ask myself at times, "Now what should I do?"

The upcoming Holy Days are about a number of things. One of them is the preciousness of time. We appreciate the year gone by and bless it with a shehechyanu as we anticipate the year to come. We might ask ourselves: How did we use our time? Were things left undone? Were words left unspoken?

The beauty of teshuvah is that after our self-reflection, we can return to consideration of the time we have and make adjustments, creating new ways of approaching our relationships and our lives.

I haven't "spoken" in a long time, and I feel there is so much to share. These days have been disturbing for our people, our nation, and our world. Clearly, there are points of light, but also tremendous challenges. I heard a comedian say that she hosted a late-night program over twenty years ago and spoke about environmental change, global warming, and disasters brought about, at least in part, by human irresponsibility; wars being fought that bring untold suffering to innocent human beings; an economy that is favorable to less than 10% of the population; runaway inflation and then she said, "So, what has changed?"

These are indeed difficult times. And when we feel helpless in the face of challenging times, we ask ourselves, "What can we do?" Here's what I think, and it sounds so simple: Be involved in the projects that matter. Continue to build a religious community that speaks to human needs. Engage in learning. Use your voice in elections and politics. And for ourselves, our hearts and spirits, take time for reflection, prayer, and gratitude, and always attempt to be better - with our actions in the world, both with strangers and those we love.

Shabbat Shalom, Shanah Tovah, L'Chayim,

Rabbi David Steinhardt

A MESSAGE FROM OUR President

Dear Friends,

It is an honor to write for the Chai as I begin my third year as your proud president. As we enter this High Holy Day season, we stand at an exciting moment in B'nai Torah's history. With our extraordinary clergy team, including our new Senior Rabbi, Bryan Wexler, leading our congregation, a dedicated staff, and an incredible community of members, we look ahead to a year filled with possibility, growth and meaningful opportunities.

It is also my privilege to introduce you to the dedicated individuals who are serving on the B'nai Torah Board. I am deeply grateful for the time, energy and passion they bring to our congregation and for their commitment to ensuring that B'nai Torah remains a strong, vibrant and welcoming synagogue for generations to come.

Together, we are helping to pave the way for an exciting future, and I look forward to all that we will accomplish in the year ahead.

Scott Frank

Melanie Jacobson
Executive Vice President

I love this congregation. Every generation inherits the blessings created by those who came before us, and every generation has the privilege of strengthening them for those who will follow. For me, serving on the Board of Trustees is both an honor and a responsibility.

Marge Browner Marks
Vice President

B'nai Torah has been my home for 41 years, and as we enter this new chapter with Rabbi Wexler and the entire clergy and staff, I am honored to serve on the Executive Board. We have an incredible community of people of all ages, and I look forward to being part of this transition as we move confidently into the future of B'nai Torah.

Lesley Deutch Hlatki
Vice President

B'nai Torah has given my family so much, and I see every member here as part of that family. Serving on the Board is my way of giving back - with humility, purpose, and a commitment to the people who make this community so special.

Dr. Bryan J. Wasserman
Vice President

B'nai Torah is my family's spiritual home - a warm, caring community where Jewish values, lifelong friendships, and meaningful traditions enrich our lives and connect generations. I chose to serve on the Board of Trustees because I believe it is both an honor and a responsibility to help ensure that our congregation continues to thrive and inspire future generations.

Lori Barbarg
Treasurer

What I love most about B'nai Torah is the people. Our clergy, staff, lay leaders, and members create a warm and welcoming community that truly feels like family - a place where I genuinely want to be. I have chosen to serve on the Board so I can help support and strengthen the meaningful experiences and opportunities that make B'nai Torah so special.

Larry Dunn
Secretary

B'nai Torah is special for me because it represents and practices my core values: a traditional approach to Judaism, unwavering support for Israel, and a robust Adult Education program. I accepted positions as a Board Member and Secretary as I felt my background both as a CPA and as a Jewish learner could be useful to the congregation.

Ed Levine
Financial Secretary

B'nai Torah has become a wonderfully comfortable and meaningful spiritual home for Noreen and I. Being on the Board of Trustees is an honor that provides personal joy through the experience of helping others.

Rachel Englander
Trustee

I grew up in a similar community where the synagogue was also a big part of family life. I, just like my children, attended the synagogue preschool from a young age and feel fortunate that I found a very warm and familiar environment at BTC. Serving on the board allows me to not only serve the current temple community, but it also gives me the opportunity to act as a bridge for new families.

Leorah G. Friedman
Trustee

B'nai Torah is a special place where my family and I have grown, learned and been given the opportunity to be a part of the greater Jewish community. It is my pleasure and privilege to serve a second, two-year term as a Trustee to contribute and give back to my second home.

Ian Group
Trustee

B'nai Torah is special to me because the clergy, staff and congregation make up the type of warm Jewish community where my wife and I always wanted to raise our kids. I chose to serve on the Board because I want to ensure the B'nai Torah community thrives now and for years to come.

Alana Hoch
Trustee

Having grown up at B'nai Torah, it is incredibly heartwarming watching our kids grow and thrive in the same building! Starting as babies in Family Time, growing in ECC, and participating in services and programming, our children feel so comfortable and connected here. I am honored to serve on the Board and work to ensure that individuals and families feel the same warmth, connection and community for generations to come!

Aaron Jay (A.J.) Horowitz
Trustee

B'nai Torah is where Natalie and I are building our Jewish life and where our daughters, Madeline and Charlotte, are growing up surrounded by tradition, learning, and a real sense of belonging. I serve on the Board because I want to help ensure this congregation remains as strong for their generation as it is for ours.

Jessica Isrow
Trustee

B'nai Torah feels like an extension of our family. It's a place where our children are growing up, where we've built meaningful friendships, and where we feel a real sense of community and belonging. For me, serving on the Board isn't just about attending meetings; it's about being invested in the people, the relationships, and the future of a community that means so much to us.

Brian Levy
Trustee

B'nai Torah has been my family's spiritual and religious home for over 40 years. I serve on the board to fulfill the words of "I'dor v'dor", passing B'nai Torah on to my children even better than my parents and grandparents passed it on to me.

Lindsey Neiberg
Trustee & Mirochnick
Religious School
Education Chair

B'nai Torah has always been a warm and welcoming community that my friends, family, and I proudly call our home away from home. From inspiring Shabbat services and compassionate clergy to the finest religious school in South Florida, B'nai Torah embodies professionalism, cooperation, acceptance, and a deep commitment to its members.

Robert Okun
Trustee

It is a privilege to continue serving on the Board, supporting B'nai Torah's exceptional programming while strengthening community engagement, expanding outreach, and fostering meaningful connections.

Eric Rozenberg
Trustee

More than ever, it is important for Jews to come together and to maintain a rich Jewish life. Serving on the Board is my way of helping my community.

Cheryl Rymer
Trustee

For more than 20 years, B'nai Torah has been my family's spiritual home, where incredible clergy, staff, and members have grounded our family in Jewish life and community. I serve on the Board to help ensure that the values and tenets of B'nai Torah remain strong, supported, and relevant for our constantly evolving community and future generations.

Elissa Schosheim
Trustee

B'nai Torah has been my spiritual home for more than 40 years. I see serving in leadership and volunteer roles, including on the Board, as both a privilege and a sacred responsibility - a meaningful way to give back to a community that has been such an important part of my life and the lives of so many others.

Geoff Sherman
Trustee

I am very grateful for the spiritual home B'nai Torah has provided for my family and I want to do what I can to make sure it remains a strong, welcoming community for families like mine for many years to come.

Seth Steinberg
Trustee

B'nai Torah embraced my family when we returned to our home state of Florida from New York in 2019. I am forever grateful to the ECC for loving and launching both my children's education journeys. I feel a responsibility to help strengthen the shul, in its entirety, for others.

Dr. Vanessa Weitzman
Trustee

The concept of synagogue as a community that helps us create family and educate us about the world around us is basic to who we are as a people. For me, being a part of the board is a way of giving back and helping engage with that community and the larger family it creates.

Ed Sopher
Immediate Past President

B'nai Torah is a special place because of the people who are here, the community we have built and the programs and rituals we do together. If serving on the Board can help further these efforts - count me in!

Barbara Weiss
WLBTC President

It is my pleasure to represent Women's League on the B'nai Torah board. My presence gives the women a voice and our lines of communication between Women's League and B'nai Torah are better for it.

Andres Alminana
Men's Club President

The depth and meaning we have received from the synagogue, its congregants, its clergy, and its many missions is hard to overstate. My wife Jen and I welcome Rabbi Wexler with every wish of good luck and look forward to a great High Holy Days/Fall season!

Spencer Sax
Foundation President

It has been a privilege to serve as the president of the B'nai Torah Foundation for the past 18 years, as a trustee of the synagogue for the past 25 years and as a member for more than 40 years. B'nai Torah is that rare Conservative synagogue in this country that has grown over the years, and it is truly a blessing to be part of this community.

Julie Risisky
Ritual Director

I have joyously served as Ritual Director for the past 20 years and have met so many wonderful people throughout the years. I'm honored to serve B'nai Torah, as everyone who serves should be, for all it gives us.

Jerold Budney
Synagogue Counsel & Trustee

B'nai Torah provides me with both spiritual inspiration and unique educational opportunities. One of my primary goals as a Board member is to make sure our Synagogue continues to provide those spiritual and educational opportunities for many years to come.

A MESSAGE FROM OUR Executive Director

The Constant Through Change

The High Holy Days have a way of putting things into perspective. We think about where we are in our lives and where we hope to go in the year ahead. Rosh Hashanah gives us an opportunity to reflect and to begin again. It reminds us that what comes next is always shaped by what came before.

This year, that sense of beginning again feels especially meaningful. After more than three decades of Rabbi Steinhardt's devoted leadership, we are entering a new chapter as we welcome Rabbi Bryan Wexler and his family to our synagogue. This is a moment filled with both gratitude and anticipation. Transitions like this are never just about leadership. They are about trust, connection, and people moving forward together.

We are not starting over. We are building upon a strong foundation, with a rich history behind us and an exciting future ahead. B'nai Torah has always been a place where generations connect. Children grow up here, families celebrate life's milestones, friendships take root, and memories are made. Those experiences stay with us, often drawing people back in new ways as our lives continue to unfold.

The synagogue is a constant not because it never changes, but because it is always there to meet us as we change. As our lives evolve, so does our community, responding to our changing needs with support, connection, and purpose.

I have had the privilege of witnessing that firsthand in my over 27 years at B'nai Torah. In 1997, my son was part of our very first Early Childhood class as a two-year-old and, two years later, a member of our first Pre-K graduating class. Years later, as that inaugural class reached yet another milestone and began graduating from college, my son was invited to return to B'nai Torah as the keynote speaker at our Pre-K graduation. It was a true full-circle moment. The very first group of toddlers to walk through our doors had become college graduates. Watching one of those children stand before a new generation of Pre-K graduates was a powerful reminder that while so much changes over time, some connections endure. Today, my grandchildren are experiencing that same warm embrace in our Early Childhood Center. B'nai Torah was there at the beginning of these journeys and continues to be an important part of our family's life nearly three decades later.

The strength of this synagogue has always come from its members. Everything that happens here is possible because people choose to participate, worship and learn together, volunteer, support one another, and invest in this place. That shared commitment is what keeps us vibrant and ensures that we remain a home for Jewish life across generations.

As we welcome Rabbi Bryan Wexler, his wife Becca, and children Meyer, Gavi, and Eliana, we do so with excitement, openness, and optimism. We look forward to getting to know them, building new friendships, and discovering together the many ways Rabbi Wexler will enrich the life of our synagogue through his teaching, leadership, and presence. As they begin this new chapter, our lives will become intertwined in ways both meaningful and lasting. Together, we will celebrate milestones, build lasting relationships, and leave a shared imprint on the future of B'nai Torah.

In this new year, we also have the opportunity to support the synagogue we all cherish. The Kol Nidre Appeal is one of the ways we put our values into action. It reflects our shared belief that a strong synagogue does not simply exist; it is sustained by all of us.

What a powerful message it would send if every member participated in this year's Kol Nidre Appeal. Regardless of the amount, our collective participation affirms that our synagogue matters, that we believe in one another, and that we value everything this place makes possible. Every gift helps sustain worship, lifelong learning, caring, and the connections that enrich our lives.

As we begin this new year, my hope is simple: that it will be a year of connection, strength, generosity, and continued growth. Every ending leads to a new beginning, and I cannot think of a more meaningful time for us to begin this next chapter together.

Wishing you and your loved ones a Shanah Tovah U'Metukah - a sweet, healthy, and good New Year.

Rachel Viselman with Rabbi Steinhardt in the ECC as a 2-year-old in 1998, and now, years later, as a mom with her son Jacob, who is part of Family Time with Rabbi Wexler. A beautiful reminder of the power of l'dor v'dor, from generation to generation.

THE RUTH ★ AND EDWARD ★ TAUBMAN ★ EARLY CHILDHOOD CENTER

This year, the Ruth and Edward Taubman Early Childhood Center at B'nai Torah Congregation proudly celebrates 30 years of excellence in early childhood education, nurturing young minds, inspiring curiosity, and building a strong foundation for lifelong Jewish learning.

The story of the Early Childhood Center began with a simple conversation. During a car ride, Rabbi Emeritus David Steinhardt spoke with Ruth Taubman about the future of B'nai Torah Congregation. Ruth shared that she and her husband, Edward, who was terminally ill, wanted to make a meaningful gift to the congregation while he was still alive. Rabbi Steinhardt explained that the congregation's greatest need, both for the present and the future, was to welcome young families by establishing a preschool. Ruth told Rabbi Steinhardt that she would discuss the idea with Edward and get back to him. Her answer came quickly and enthusiastically. It was an immediate yes. Although Edward did not live to see the Early Childhood Center open, Ruth had the joy of watching her vision become a reality. She remained deeply connected to what she affectionately called "her school" throughout her life. Until her passing in 2023, Ruth continued to visit the school and celebrate its growth. Today, Ruth and Edward's children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren proudly carry on her legacy through their continued generosity, support and frequent visits to the school. While Ruth's presence is greatly missed, her dream continues to flourish.

Nancy Goldstein served as the founding director of the Ruth and Edward Taubman Early Childhood Center. When she accepted the position, the school opened with just two classrooms and 35 children. Through her leadership and unwavering commitment to excellence, the school experienced remarkable growth. By its 20th anniversary, enrollment had grown to 150 children. The school's success was built upon a clear educational philosophy that recognizes play as a child's work. Nancy stated, "We believe that children learn best when given opportunities to be imaginative, explore, and think critically and independently. The curriculum is designed with a focus on activity based learning and social interactions."

It has been my privilege to serve as the director of this incredible school, and I am honored to begin my ninth year as we carry forward the vision that began 30 years ago. As we celebrate this milestone anniversary, we are also celebrating the highest enrollment in the school's history, with over 150 children attending Camp Keshet and more than 260 children attending our school this year. This remarkable achievement reflects the trust families place in our exceptional educators, innovative curriculum, nurturing environment, and strong foundation of Jewish values. For three decades, the Ruth and Edward Taubman Early Childhood Center has been much more than a preschool. It has been a "home" where children discover the joy of learning, families build lifelong friendships, and Jewish traditions and values become part of everyday life.

As we celebrate this special anniversary, the countless educators, families, and children who have shaped our community. With gratitude for our past and excitement for our future, we proudly celebrate 30 years of excellence and look forward to inspiring generations of children for many years to come.

L'shanah Tovah. May the New Year bring health, happiness, peace, and abundant blessings to you and your family.

WE ARE Planting Seeds

As we prepare to welcome 5787, I always find myself reflecting on the sound of the shofar. It calls us to pause, to reflect, and to embrace the opportunities a new year brings. It reminds us that growth doesn't happen all at once. It happens one step, and one experience at a time.

In Rabbi Wexler's first Shabbat morning sermon, he shared a beautiful image that has stayed with me. He spoke about planting seeds, putting down roots, and remembering that "the strongest trees begin with the smallest seeds." As I listened, I couldn't help but think about our students at the Mirochnick Religious School.

Every day at MRS, we are planting seeds.

Sometimes those seeds look small - a kindergartner learning the Shema, a child proudly identifying the Hebrew letters they've worked so hard to master, a class celebrating Sukkot together, or a family gathered for our Simchat Torah celebration. These moments may seem small on their own, but together they create something extraordinary.

They help our children put down deep Jewish roots; roots grounded in Torah, kindness, tradition, community, and a love of being Jewish.

As we begin another school year, our halls are filled with excitement.

We are thrilled to welcome new and returning students, celebrate another year of record enrollment, and begin this new chapter with Rabbi Bryan

Wexler. There is a wonderful sense of possibility throughout our congregation as we grow together.

One of my favorite parts of Rabbi Wexler's sermon was his reminder that sacred communities aren't built all at once. They grow patiently, faithfully, one seed at a time. As educators, we have the privilege of seeing that happen every day; a smile at the classroom door, a thoughtful question, a new friendship, a child leading a prayer for the first time and a family celebrating together. These moments become the roots that sustain a lifetime of Jewish living.

I often tell families that while we teach Hebrew, holidays, prayers, and traditions, what we are really doing is helping children grow into compassionate, confident Jewish adults who will one day plant seeds of their own.

As we begin this new year together, I am grateful for our dedicated teachers, clergy, staff, families, and students. Thank you for trusting us to help nurture those seeds. I know that together we will continue to build a community rooted in Jewish values, strengthened by meaningful relationships, and filled with opportunities for every child to flourish.

May 5787 be a year of learning, growth, connection, and blessing for all of us.

Fred and I wish our B'nai Torah Family Shanah Tovah U'Metukah

NEW YEAR, NEW MITZVOT

As we look ahead to a new year, I am filled with gratitude, hope, and excitement for all that lies ahead. The Meryl & Ron Gallatin Tzedakah, Learning and Chesed (TLC) program looks at the new year as an opportunity to deepen our commitment to serving others, strengthening our community, and creating meaningful connections.

This year also marks the beginning of a wonderful new chapter as we welcome our new Senior Rabbi, Bryan Wexler. With new leadership comes fresh ideas, renewed energy, and the opportunity to build traditions that will inspire our congregation and the community for years to come.

TLC looks forward to creating new mitzvot that bring people together through acts of tzedakah, learning, and chesed. Whether it's preparing meals for those in need, supporting local, national, or international outreach efforts, volunteering as families, or simply showing up for one another, every act of TLC has the power to change a life.

As we embrace this new year, let us celebrate not only the traditions that have shaped us but also the new ones we will create together. May this be a year filled with purpose, generosity, and opportunities to make a lasting impact.

Here's to a new year, new mitzvot, new traditions, and a bright future together.

CHESED

It didn't take long for Rabbi Wexler to jump right into the action with TLC!

Whether he was helping someone in need, arranging flowers for the homebound, wrapping gifts for halfway to Hanukkah, schmearing bagels alongside congregants for those experiencing food insecurity, or busting a move with the residents of JARC during their Tu B'Av celebration, he embraced every opportunity to serve.

That's the heart of TLC, meeting people where they are, building relationships through mitzvot, and creating meaningful moments of connection.

A wonderful beginning to a new chapter of serving our community together.

GROWING Together

Family Time families are excited to welcome Rabbi Wexler to South Florida. We look forward to getting to know you and your family and helping you make B'nai Torah your home for decades to come. Of course, our babies and toddlers have lots to share with you about new beginnings. We happen to be the experts at exploring new worlds, learning how things work, figuring out how to get along with others and managing big emotions. We have a few tips for you as you begin your first year as Senior Rabbi at B'nai Torah Congregation.

Here are just a few messages from the Family Time Families to help you on your new beginnings. Shanah Tovah U'Metukah!

13 Years of Inspiring Learning

Melton is thriving at B'nai Torah Congregation! The 2026–27 Melton program features an impressive lineup of engaging courses designed to inspire meaningful Jewish learning and connection.

What makes our program stand out is the intentional strategy behind it. We have cultivated a culture where Melton is more than a series of classes—it's a cornerstone of adult Jewish engagement. Our focus extends beyond enrollment to creating a welcoming learning community that encourages participants to return semester after semester, invite friends, deepen their synagogue connections, and see Jewish learning as an ongoing journey.

OUR SUCCESS OFFERS VALUABLE TAKEAWAYS:

- Build relationships
- Create pathways for learners to continue from one course to the next.
- Regularly introduce new offerings while maintaining beloved courses.
- Partner across our synagogue and broader community to reach new audiences.
- Celebrate learners and foster a sense of belonging that extends beyond the classroom.

The result is a sustainable, growing program where learners become ambassadors, classrooms become communities, and Melton serves as a catalyst for lifelong Jewish learning. We invite you to explore our 2026–27 course lineup and to sign up for your lifelong learning journey at www.btcboca.org/melton.

11 Eleven WITH ELYSA

Elysa Stark,
Director of Programming
and Membership

Rabbi Bryan Wexler in Israel

In this issue, Elysa Stark, Director of Programming and Membership, interviewed new Senior Rabbi Bryan Wexler.

- 1 What made you and your family most excited about moving to Boca Raton?
We were drawn to the vibrant Jewish community, Donna Klein Jewish Academy, and the beautiful weather. However, we made the big move from Cherry Hill to Boca Raton for one reason: B'nai Torah Congregation. I fell in love with B'nai Torah and am beyond excited and honored to lead the community in writing its next chapter.
 - 2 Who has had the biggest influence on your Jewish journey?
I have been blessed to have many teachers and role models who have inspired me on my Jewish journey, but the greatest influences on my Jewish identity have been much closer to home: my parents, Drs. Ruth and Barry Wexler, and my grandmother, Dr. Lee Richmond. My parents have always been my rocks; my greatest supporters, encouragers, and examples. And my grandmother has been my lifelong chavruta—my study partner, confidante, and dear friend.
 - 3 What's a Jewish value that especially guides your life?
Chesed - kindness. I believe that everything should be built on kindness. But chesed is more than just kindness. Chesed means loving-kindness. It is love translated into action.
 - 4 What's one Jewish tradition you especially love sharing with others?
I cherish reciting the Shema and singing with Becca and our children at bedtime. It's a moment that reminds me that Judaism is lived not only in the synagogue, but also in the everyday rhythms of life. Those few quiet minutes together have become one of the most meaningful parts of my day.
 - 5 What does meaningful leadership look like to you?
The best leaders listen before they speak, empower rather than control, and help others discover the gifts they already possess. Leadership is not about having all the answers; it is about asking the right questions. If, through my leadership, people feel more connected to one another, more connected to Judaism, and more confident that they matter and belong, then I will consider that a success.

How do you recharge spiritually?

I find renewal in spending time with my family. There is something deeply grounding about being with the people I love most. Learning Torah is another source of spiritual energy for me. I also find that some of my deepest spiritual moments come through pastoral conversations. Sitting with someone during a joyful milestone or a difficult season, listening to their story, and helping them find meaning reminds me why I became a rabbi in the first place.

What gives you hope right now?

What gives me hope right now is people. It is the quiet acts of kindness that rarely make the headlines, the volunteers who show up without being asked, the parents raising children of character, the friends who refuse to let one another walk through life's challenges alone, and the communities that continue to choose compassion over cynicism. Every day I have the privilege of being with people who remind me that goodness is not only alive, it's contagious.

What's something people are surprised to learn about you?

- I sang in an acapella group in college
- One of the people who most inspired me to become a rabbi was a Catholic nun.
- I was raised in the Reform movement and only was introduced to Conservative Judaism in college
- My favorite show of all time is a childhood show, Mr. Rogers Neighborhood

If you weren't a rabbi, what career might you have pursued?

Well, for most of my childhood, I wanted to be a professional baseball player. Ultimately, I learned that career was not in the cards, but if I had not become a rabbi, I imagine I would have found my way into education, counseling, or another profession centered on building meaningful relationships.

What is your favorite sports team or activity?

I am a huge Philadelphia sports fan; Eagles, Phillies, 76ers and Flyers. I bleed Eagles green. I hope the congregation is looking forward to us all singing the Eagles Fight Song together in the coming years!

What's your favorite Jewish holiday and why?

Like most rabbis, I'm going to give you more than one answer! I love Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur because there is nothing quite like having the entire community gathered together. The excitement, energy, beauty, and sense of awe that fill the Yamim Noraim are truly extraordinary. I love Sukkot because of its simplicity. There is something deeply meaningful about stepping outside, slowing down, and sharing meals in the sukkah. And I love Passover. Some of my fondest memories are of having the seder with family. I cherish the time with loved ones coupled with the opportunity to retell our people's story.

Women's League

Shalom B'nai Torah!

Women's League of B'nai Torah had a busy past season, and 5787 shows no signs of slowing down! I am happy to say our membership is growing, our participation is amazing, and our Torah Fund campaign is outstanding. Thanks to Cantor Fishman and her committee for our first Women's Wellness Day. It was so well attended, we will do it again! Our first Bar-B-Que Bash, with our own Cliff Viner as the headliner, was a huge success! Book Club and Rosh Chodesh events continue to attract so many ladies.

B'nai Torah was well represented at the Women's League Convention in Alexandria, Virginia. I was proud to have so many first-time attendees in our group. It is inspirational to daven, sing, eat, and learn with 400+ like-minded women. We learned all about the changes to our Torah Fund giving campaign.

SHEMA KOLEINU, HEAR OUR VOICE

Shema Koleinu, the theme of our campaign, marks 40 years since the first female cantor was invested. This year's Torah Fund pin, featuring joyful women and musical notes, expresses the right of every woman's voice to be heard. However, it is not just the women's responsibility to ensure the future of the Conservative/Masorti movement by supporting the scholarships and programs at the five seminaries around the world. It is the future at stake, and we all need to help strengthen Jewish education. Join us in this worthwhile campaign.

Looking forward to the New Year with great appreciation for all those who make our Women's League so special. Get involved - we will hear your voice!

Men's Club

Dear B'nai Torah,

For this High Holy Days message, I want to honor our great friend and retiring Men's Club President, Dr. Elliot Burns.

If you've ever met Elliot, you can sense his infectious enthusiasm and kindness from the moment you meet him.

During our work together as co-Presidents, I've had the opportunity to get to know him well, and he is a man of many qualities.

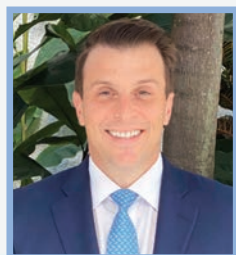

But what I want to draw attention to is the joy that doing mitzvahs brings to Elliot. This is the essence of our synagogue and who we are as a people.

Every early-morning email (well before sunrise), thoughtful text, or Men's Club idea/initiative that Elliot has brought forward or worked on over the years was not for him. It was for his fellow congregants and his synagogue.

His attention to detail, willingness to listen, and caring demeanor have made him a pleasure to work with and call a friend. He is truly our Men's Club "Mensch Emeritus."

Thank you, Elliot, for all your contributions over the years. You have helped to build and mold this community.

In that spirit, we invite you to learn more about and get involved in our Men's Club this fall.

Andres (Andrew)
Alminana,
Men's Club President

Thank you
Elliot Burns!

Hello B'nai Torah,

As this is my first article for Chai Magazine, allow me to introduce myself.

I have lived in the Boca Raton/Delray Beach area for more than 27 years and my husband, Bruce, and I raised our family here.

Our son, Zach, and his wife, Chera, are also B'nai Torah members and live in Boca with their two daughters: Eliana, a Mirochnick Religious School student, and Olivia, who was born this past June. Our son Ross, a proud University of Florida alumnus, lives in Boynton Beach.

My fundraising experience stretches back decades. I was happily retired from my position as Chief Development Officer at Rales JFS when B'nai Torah approached me about giving up my canasta lessons and water aerobics to join the team. For years, I was the volunteer who always held the fundraising portfolio. Having grown up in a family where conversations about tzedakah were always part of the dinner table, I felt very comfortable having conversations that might not come as easily to others. (Studies have shown that many people would rather write a larger check themselves than ask someone else to give tzedakah.)

Why am I sharing this with all of you? It is important to me that you know my background and my beliefs about tzedakah so that when you see me in the synagogue wearing my name tag, you won't run in the other direction. I truly enjoy talking with people about their experiences at B'nai Torah and about their hopes and dreams for supporting our congregation. Seeing the joy they experience through their philanthropy means everything to me.

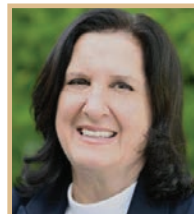

I have the privilege of witnessing that joy in my role at B'nai Torah as I have helped donors fulfill their desire to support this incredible congregation. Most recently, I experienced it on a deeply personal level when my six-year-old granddaughter handed me the contents of her tzedakah box. She was so excited and proud to help, and I was filled with awe at her delight in giving. Under the heading of "you can't make this stuff up," guess how much was in the box? Exactly $18!

In my role as Director of Development, I look forward to sharing that same sense of joy with you and helping you fulfill your own philanthropic aspirations.

Wishing you and your loved ones a sweet New Year filled with health, happiness, and peace.

Shanah Tovah to my B'nai Torah family!

August 22, 2026

Parents: Pauline and Alex Shender
Mitzvah Project: Daniel's bar mitzvah project is raising money for Boca Helps Ukraine, a cause that is deeply personal to him as his mother's family is from Odesa, Ukraine, and he has seen firsthand the organization's impact on children and families affected by the war.

 Ilan Yeslow

October 17, 2026

Parents: Shaina Roth and Seth Yeslow
Mitzvah Project: Ilan is working with the Jewish Association of Residential Care (JARC) to collect puzzles for adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities, sharing his love of puzzles and helping create meaningful connections, one piece at a time.

 Samuel Garvett

October 24, 2026

Parents: Stephanie and Jeffrey Garvett
Mitzvah Project: Sam is volunteering at an assisted living facility spreading joy to the residents.

 Mitchell Schleicher

October 31, 2026

Parents: Marina Schleicher and Yury Molchan
Mitzvah Project: Mitchell is fixing and organizing library books.

 Jordyn Silverman

November 21, 2026

Parent: Jocelyn and Marc Silverman
Mitzvah Project: Jordyn's bat mitzvah project will be to support Peace Players Middle East which uses basketball to bridge divides, change perceptions, and develop leaders among Palestinian and Israeli youth in Israel.

 Lindsey Sheres

December 6, 2026

Parent: Gary and Ashley Sheres and Karen Sheres

"OUR PRIDE & JOY"

 Micah Tanen

December 12, 2026

Parent: Robert and Meredith Tanen

Mitzvah Project: Micah's mitzvah project is volunteering with the Miracle League of Palm Beach County and helping with the organization's Miracle League Gala in November. He will be working to raise money and awareness for this important cause which marries two things he cares deeply about: baseball and kids with differing abilities having a good quality of life.

 Daniel Green

December 12, 2026

Parents: Jessica and Daryl Green

Mitzvah Project: Daniel is sweetening the community one chocolate at a time by making homemade Dubai chocolate confections and sharing them with people who may not otherwise have the opportunity to enjoy a special treat.

 Zak Weitzman

December 19, 2026

Parents: Vanessa and Tal Weitzman
